The last 30 days are in effect from December 23rd, 2015 to January 21st, 2016. No features, bugs or support are included in the 30 day trial period. The trial version is tested with the following languages: English, French, German, Italian, Russian, Spanish. All supported languages were tested on Windows 7 and Windows 10, and tested on a single CPU core only. On Windows 7 and Windows 10, the trial version can be installed and used on computers with UAC enabled. A password is required to log in with a trial account. Evaluation period If you are within the 30-day evaluation period, but you have not yet activated a licence, a confirmation message is displayed on first use. You have the following two options: License If you accept the terms and conditions, you can proceed to activate your trial licence. Help If you want to obtain further information, you can enter your license name and the help url Access If you choose the license key option, you can use the software to: Create, edit, publish or manage samples in an ATLAS Workbench. Modify or add sample metadata. Download samples into a test database. Properties The properties of the license key can be modified. You can disable the license check if the evaluation period has not expired yet. You can choose the priority of the license check, i.e. you want to check it immediately, or you want to delay checking it by 1 to 15 days. The last 3 days of the trial period can be used to send feedback. The information in the feedback form is used to improve the product, e.g. when evaluating the product and when making it available to a wider audience. License key The license key is stored as a serialized string in your license file. Your license key cannot be altered or converted back to a string. The licence key of the trial version has the following format: LicenseName: Title: ShortName: 3CRYPTID: [User-id: Password] Note: 1) License keys cannot be copied or transferred. 2) By activating the trial version, you confirm that the product is made available to you on the terms and conditions of the license key. 82157476af
